WE RECOMMEND ...

- 1 If you are a health professional you can go directly to the professional organizations. However, if you want to be part of the support teams, you can trust on job websites and recruitment companies.
- 2 The calls for the public work can be important, you try to be interested to find out the due dates and organize your preparation and postulation.
- 3 There are highly valued skills such as responsibility, empathy or customer orientation. Make sure to show them in your resume and in the jobs interviews.
- 4 The health knowledge can be easily transferable in other countries, consider expanding your resume with international experience.
